

Board of Education Seeks $3.1 Million

Approval for a $3.1 million bond-and-loan package proposed by the Albany Board of Education will be put on the ballot at the next general election, Nov. 7. The proposal calls for an expansion of the district to six schools, including a newly-created "middle school" for grades six to eight to be built on Feeny Field in El Cerrito. The proposal would also adjust grades in all the schools except for the MacGregor and Vista Elementary schools, while financing the full replacement of the Marin School and the replacement of the unsafe portions of Cornell School.

The proposal would put kindergarten through fifth-graders at Marin and Cornell, grades 9-12 at Albany High School, and leave MacGregor and Vista as K-3 schools. Essentially following the recommendations of the citizens advisory committee, the Board did pare down the cost figure by cutting $352,000 in capital improvements and some furniture equipment replacements.

The "middle school" concept marks a major change in educational programs. Students in grades six through eight were felt by the citizens committee to have "special needs different from and not available at elementary or high school levels."

Unanimously passed by the Board, the monetary part of the proposal calls for a $1,825,000 local bond issue and a $1,275,000 state loan. The proposal needs a two-thirds approval of those voting, to be passed.

Although not specifically dealt with during this meeting, the Board by its own action rejected the alternate proposals of Robert Elliott and Board of Education member Jack Rosano. Rosano's plan, earlier criticized as educationally indefensible, called for only five campuses and clustered grades 7-12 at an expanded high school. Elliott provided three alternatives, each involving five campuses, but also necessitating a staggered schedule with school year-round, in a cycle of 45 school days and 15 off-days.

Superintendent Forry said that the $1,275,000 loan, if approved, would be repaid by a 17.5-cent property tax charge every year for 20 years. It is thought that the interest on the loan will be forgiven by the State. Figures were not yet available on what the property tax increase for the local bond proposal would be. Forry also anticipated that the 20-cent earthquake tax presently being levied for portable buildings would be dropped.

'Specialties' For Potluck

The Albany Firemen's Wives will hold a pot luck supper on July 26 at 6:30 p.m. at the home of President Olga Miranda. Each member will be bringing "Specialty Dish" to be enjoyed. This summer social will be preceded by a short business meeting and followed by games and entertainment.

At the last regular business meeting, held in the home of Mrs. Gerald Browne, a financial report was given on the White Elephant Auction held recently, proceeds of which go toward state scholarships and other philanthropies. A fifty dollar contribution was sent to the Albany Pre-School toward their fund for repairs.

In additional past business, Mrs. John Hritz was presented with a state and local Life Membership upon the retirement of her husband, John, from the fire department.

Support For School Bond

In a recent meeting, the Albany Chamber of Commerce voted to "go on record as supporters of rebuilding Albany's schools and the bond issue."

The vote came after a report by Jerome Blank, one of the Chamber's representatives on the Citizens' Advisory Committee whose school plan was adopted by the Board of Education.

During his report, Blank stated that the "biggest industry in Albany is our schools" and that "if the bond doesn't pass it will be very detrimental to our city and business."

Children's Book Festival At Albany Library

Robin Goodfellow, children's entertainer will be presented at a Summer Reading Club Festival at the Albany Library, 1216 Solano Ave., today at 1:30 p.m.

Children's librarians Lasse Graham and Morya Shea have been conducting the summer story hour for children under the intriguing title "The Curse of the Mummy's Tomb." The two librarians invite the children of Albany to participate in this special event. Parents wishing more information about the Albany Library program for children may call 526-3720.

'Biting Fly' Identified

If you look down and find what looks like a housefly biting your leg—and if you see giant fly specks on the outside walls of your house, you could be the victim of the biting stable fly, Stomoxys, stated Harold Van Coops, deputy health officer for the City of Albany.

Identified for Albany by the State Bureau of Vector Control, the eggs of this fly are laid mainly on dog droppings and in piles of grass cuttings, taking about 3 weeks to develop from egg to larva to adult fly.

Control is best applied at the larval level. Daily pickup of droppings, flushing them into the sewer and scattering lawn cuttings so that they will dry will take away available breeding places.

When the fly hatches it seeks the ears and legs of pets and their owners to suck their blood. Then it often rests on a door or window casement. When the fly launches itself into the air again, some of the undigested blood is squeezed out, resulting in a "fly speck" about six times the size of a "normal" house-fly speck.

Difficult to wash off, these fly specks identify roosting places and here insecticide can be effectively applied with a brush. Safe type insecticides, such as those containing malathion, can be purchased with directions for use, at hardware or garden supply stores, stated Van Coops.

School Chief Forry Quits

Kenneth Forry, School Superintendent for Albany, announced his resignation, effective June 29 of next year, at the Board of Education meeting, July 11.

Forry, 61, will be leaving after 16 years as Superintendent in Albany. Coming to Albany in 1957, Forry left the Fairfax-San Anselmo-Kentfield School District in Marin County, where he was superintendent from 1952 to 1957.

Forry's request to the Board to accept his resignation was approved unanimously, but as Board Member Ruth Ganong said, "It's a hard recommendation to accept."

Forry said that he is resigning to retire, but added that he was contemplating a new job on his "own terms." He lives with his wife, Lorraine, here in Albany on Sonoma Avenue. They have three grown children.

Widening Bid Awarded By City Council

Bay Cities Paving and Grading, Inc., was awarded the contract for widening and reconstructing Masonic Avenue during the City Council meeting, July 17.

With the lowest bid for the construction project, $46,162, Bay Cities won the contract over four other firms for the Masonic Avenue reconstruction from Solano Avenue to the city's southern limit.

In other action the Council set aside September 3-9 as "Union Label Week," and passed a resolution establishing salaries for the city's employees and officers for the coming fiscal year.

Mayor Carlevaro reminded the Council and audience of the Public Informational meeting set for Wednesday, July 19, at 4:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers. The meeting will deal with the Hill proposal by Interstate General Development, Inc.

Ah, Cooling!

Warm weather and water are an unbeatable combination, especially for kids. So it's not surprising that the kiddies' wading pool in Memorial Park has been filled with little people during the hot spell.

Adults may be a little envious as they pass by the children lolling and splashing in the foot deep water. In various stages of swimming dress and undress, the children seemed blithely unaware of the sweltering climate surrounding their grown-up counterparts.

The children, ever inventive, have definite personal techniques for getting the most enjoyment out of their wading time. There are the "do-nothings" who prefer to lie calmly on their backs while others take a more active part. As always, when there is water of any size from puddle to ocean, the splashes are present, wetting themselves and the crowd at the same time. The "hop-in-and-outers" get a taste of the heat by landing on the hot walkway surrounding the pool and they soon return to the wet and wild pool. Then there are the edge-sitters, the ploppers (from the water-head in mid-pool), and the "swimmers" who attempt to get some serious stroking done while the others waste their time paddling and goofing around.

But the universal thing for all the kids whatever their style, is the "funness" of the pool, the warm weather, the other kids, and the ah, cooling waters.

WINNERS of Albany Lions Club's traditional Fourth of July Watermelon Eating Contest are enjoying the fruits of their labor. Winners for the three to six year olds were: girls, Sonia Haney, first, and Najiva Mutakili, second; for the boys Mario Rivas was first, with Steven Roberts, second. In the seven to nine year olds Kendra Ridley was first and Katie Robbins, second, in the girls, while Mike Lewis, first, and Chris Reed, second, were the boys winners. Cynthia Dahl was first in the girls 10 through 12, with Gretchen Nelson, second, while Don Chelemados was first and Kevin Reed second, for the boys. Pictured here with the winners are Lions workers John McDonald, Bill Savage and Tiny Kampe.

'Friends of the Albany Hill' Present Alternate Proposal

"Friends of the Albany Hill" presented an alternate plan for the development of Albany Hill to the City Council calling for a commercial/recreation complex, clustered retirement homes, and a large park section.

The Friends wished "to present for consideration by the citizens and elected officials" a proposal "for development of Albany Hill which will preserve the unique natural environment, provide the city with a net increase in revenue, meet many of the urgent needs of the people for recreation facilities and at the same time permit developers to make profits and create not only construction jobs but a large permanent increase in other types of employment within the city."

Eye Check-Up Opportunity

The Optometry Clinic on the Berkeley campus of the University of California has announced that appointments for clinic visits are now being made for the rest of the summer.

The clinic, part of the School of Optometry, offers complete eye examination and general clinic services, including the prescription and fitting of eyeglasses.

Examinations are usually performed by optometry students working under the close supervision of faculty members.

The Clinic handles more than 30,000 patient visits each year, about half of these University students. The patient load falls off somewhat in summer, and the general public has a better choice of appointments during this time. There are no restrictions on who may use the Clinic.

Hours for the Clinic are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. For further information or to make an appointment, telephone 642-5761.

Birthday Party For 'Shakey's' Pizza

Shakey's Shakey's Pizza is celebrating their First Birthday, July 22, with a big party.

Everyone is invited and Shakey's is offering a special birthday coupon to help get things started. The entertainment lined up for the evening includes Dev Singh, who will sing and accompany himself on the guitar, piano, and auto harp. S. and E. Boynton, billed as "Mirthful Mysteries," will present a Magic Act, while Marty, the juggling bartender will do his thing.

The proposed commercial/recreation area, located on the west side of the Hill adjacent to the freeway, would require the creation of a new zone. Essential to the Friends' plan is "to keep auto pollution to a minimum and protect the safety of children living in Albany." Therefore only one auto entry is called for, on Pierce Street, with no autos being allowed in the natural area. The

Summer Fire Hazards Noted

The approach of summer is good news for vacationers, but it may spell trouble for California's wildland firefighters, State Director of Conservation James G. Stearns warns.

Stearns, whose department includes the California Division of Forestry, said the tinder-dry forests and brushlands present an extreme fire peril, that can be challenged only through concern and cooperation on the part of California's residents and visitors this summer.

Stearns said state, local and federal firefighters face a hazardous situation because of too little rain, premature warm weather and dry north winds. Rainfall has been less than half the average total in most areas of California—and the rainy season is about over.

Stearns said the Division of Forestry and other fire-fighting organizations are on alert—but, he added, "It's not enough for firemen to be on the alert if the people are not careful. Everyone must help to keep fires from starting in the first place."

California experienced a similar pre-summertime fire potential in 1970 when fires burned 755,525 acres and 14 persons died. Damage amounted to millions of dollars. (California's largest single fire, in terms of acres burned, was the 1932 Matilija fire, which burned 175,000 acres in the Los Padres National Forest.)

The Times prints more news about Albany people than any other newspaper.

Teach Children About Pets

Think before you give a pet to a child, warns Deputy Health Officer Harold Van Coops. Children do not automatically know how to protect themselves or their pet from harm, they must be taught.

If it is a kitten or a puppy, remember that it misses its mother and the others of the litter. Play is healthy, but small animals and children need rest as well as love. Night time is not necessarily sleep time for cats. When your kitten grows up he will want to be out and will learn to come in with the morning paper.

Balanced diet and vitamins are very important to small animals and birds. Birds need gravel, seed, vitamin oil and a beak scratcher (cuttlebone). Occasionally chickweed or lettuce is a treat.

Sometimes pets carry diseases that can infect humans. Ninety percent of pet turtles examined in a public health survey were found to have Salmonella, related to the typhoid organism. Careful sanitation, washing hands after handling and not kissing pets can save a child from an uncomfortable sickness which he could pass on to others.

Consult your veterinarian. He will suggest a book with hints and guidelines on successful care and training of both the pet and its owner.

'Knights' Honor Albany Resident

Nicanor H. Mamaril, an Albany resident, and District Deputy of District 21 of California Knights of Columbus, was presented the "Knight of the Year" award for outstanding service.

The presentation took place at the annual dinner and dance at the Fratellanza Club sponsored by the Berkeley Council No. 1499 of the Knights of Columbus. Nicanor Mamaril is past Grand Knight of the Berkeley Council and past Faithful Navigator of the Ernest H. Woodfield General, Fourth Degree of Richmond.

The Mail Bag

(The views expressed in the following letters are those of the individual writers, and do not reflect, in any way, those of this newspaper.)

Editor, the Times:

Albany is a City of modest but comfortable homes. Most of the homes are owned by the residents—senior citizens and parents of school children. Many people are becoming interested in the convenience and economy of apartments and "garden type" complexes. Albany is a small City—a neighborhood City—in which all projects loom up as "frightening" or "hopeful" signs. Right now, the City is faced with a multitude of projects.

We are like a family, with many needs: a new car; a new washing machine; college for Junior; braces for Betty's teeth; roof repairs before winter; a family vacation trip; insurance renewal; mortgage payments; and the next tax bill. If all members of the family are impatient, demanding, and self-centered, the family is in for a rough summer.

So what will Albany do about schools, parks, streets, sewers, land and business development and taxes? This is only a suggestion, but I believe the time has come for a "family council." We can probably achieve most of our goals, meet most of our needs, enjoy most of our desires. We can have our cake and eat it—but we may have to settle for a more modest cake. Last April, Mayor Carlevaro proposed formation of an "Albany First Committee." It seems that there is a present and pressing need for such a "family council" to reconcile the multitude of projects which Albany must consider. Let's promote the Mayor's plan—before the roof leaks.

SAMUEL R. DOWS

The roadside fruit and vegetable stands, once a familiar sight in California's rural areas, are becoming increasingly hard to find.

Not many years ago, just about every rural highway had a sprinkling of rustic shelters, from which the farmer's family would sell tree-ripened fruits from their orchards, as well as vine-ripened tomatoes, homegrown ears of corn and onions freshly gathered from nearby fields.

The incomparable flavor of cherries, apricots, peaches, plums and berries that had been allowed to ripen before picking, tempted many a motorist, who more often than not loaded the car with bags and boxes of these delicacies—to be eaten as is, or taken home for canning.

Finding the farmer's roadside stand now takes a little exploring, as modern freeways now bypass the old-time fruit stands, and the new ones, built near interchanges and gleaming gas stations, remind one of the extension into the country of the city supermarket.

Shoppers in the city supermarkets, who recall from earlier years the special flavor of tree-ripened fruits, wonder why they can't find this kind of quality in local markets. The answer is quite simple—tree-ripened fruit is extremely delicate and cannot stand the rigors of normal shipment to market. It must be picked on the "green-side" in order to survive the delays in getting it to market and to have a few days of life in the produce department. However, those of us who live in the Bay Area are particularly fortunate in that the orchards, which supply a great variety of our fruit, are comparatively close to us. It is well worth it to take a leisurely drive, on rural roads through nearby orchard country in search of an authentic roadside stand.

If you are lucky enough to find one, try some fresh tree-ripened fruit and locally grown vegetables—for a taste you will never forget.

Pennies Aid Ailing Children

Young people in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) have been saving their pennies to help other young people. Under the direction of Florence Turner and Marilyn Chamberlain, the young people of the Albany-Berkeley area have been saving their pennies and will send their contribution to the Primary Children's Hospital in Salt Lake City.

From the beginning the story of the Primary Children's Hospital is as simple as love. It is a story of people helping people.

In 1911 in Salt Lake City, a crippled boy struggled to play with his friends. Watching nearby were two sensitive women who already were in charge of the Primary Association of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, the organization responsible for the weekday social and religious training of children.

"What is our duty to the sick and crippled as well as the healthy?" they asked themselves. And thus the Primary Children's Hospital was born.

It was a small beginning; a few beds were set aside for ailing youngsters in the Latter-Day Saints Hospital. Even so the totally new concept and hallmark of the hospital was practiced: attention and care for the total child, for his physical, social and spiritual needs.

Soon the hospital expanded into a large converted home where during the next 40 years more than 5,000 children were treated in the makeshift but warm-hearted facility. In 1952 when the hospital moved to its present location, the healing program was balanced with recreational games that helped the children learn to laugh and enjoy life as they became well. Loving care and the professional services of fine doctors and nurses continued to be donated, and thousands of children from all parts of the world have come to the Primary Children's Hospital for treatment.

In 1960 the hospital began to change from an orthopedic convalescent hospital to a high quality general pediatric hospital. Some 40,000 days of hospital care were received by young people last year. These patients came from most states and several foreign countries. The only restriction to their entry was that they be less than 19 years of age.

All races, colors and religions are welcome at Primary Children's Hospital. They are treated by more than 250 doctors who among them practice almost all of the known medical specialties. Each patient receives, in addition, social and spiritual care that aids in his development as a whole, happy person. Religious leaders of every faith visit their young charges at the hospital.

School is a big part of a child's hospital life and is held every day of the regular school year.

Winning three games last week-end, Key Printing finished as national Division champions with a final record of 12 wins and 2 losses.

As National Division champions, the Key Printing team will play the American Division champions, Mount Eden, in a three game tournament. Two of the games will be played Thursday and Saturday, July 20 and 22, while one game was already played Tuesday, July 18. The tournament is taking place at Tennyson High School.

In their action Saturday, Key Printing defeated San Lorenzo National 12-10 at Arroyo Park. Rightfielder Tom Drennan led the hitting for Key Printing with a 3 for 4 standing. Mario Lavagnino picked up the win in relief.

In a doubleheader Sunday, Albany defeated Dublin 5-0 and Centerville National 8-5. In the game against Dublin in Memorial Park, Jon Van Coops allowed only two hits, while Dave Okawachi's third base defensive plays aided Van Coops' shutout.

Rescue Team Aids Sheriffs

The services of a mountain rescue team manned by members of the California Ecology Corps have been made available to all California sheriffs.

The 10-man team, based at Calaveras Ecology Center near Angels Camp, will respond instantly following a request from the sheriff. The Department of Conservation administers the ecology camp, formed a year ago by Governor Ronald Reagan to perform a variety of conservation-related projects in the state.

Corpsmen are also on standby duty for fires and other emergencies such as the recent flooding near Isleton in Sacramento County. The rescue team has undergone extensive training for 10 months to prepare themselves for any kind of mountain rescue.

Playing in Fremont Sunday afternoon, Rich Law finished his season record with 6 wins and 1 loss. Tom Drennan led the hitting attack against Centerville with 3 for 3, while Dan Gray, Mike August, and Rich Law had 2 hits each.

AAA Warns Against Gyp Car Repairs

When you're travelling far from home on a vacation trip, you are especially vulnerable to gyp auto-repair shops and service stations who can cheat customers by making phony or unnecessary repairs, says the California State Automobile Association.

Although the operators of such unscrupulous establishments are few, they are a serious menace to the traveler. They are quick to spot cars packed with vacation luggage and often take advantage of travelers who are unfamiliar with the area.

The dishonest operator often uses the scare tactic. He tells you your car's water pump or generator is going out and you better have it fixed or replaced before it quits completely. Some auto servicemen have been known to squirt oil around a seal, then tell the owner it is leaking. Others have deliberately damaged hoses, fan belts and tires to make a sale.

What can you do to protect yourself against dishonest repairmen? The California State Automobile Association offers these suggestions:

First, establish in your own community a garage or service outlet you can trust and then stay with that garage—don't keep hopping around from one place to another. If you have trouble finding such a place, check with the AAA or other reliable source for recommended establishments.

When you are going to take a trip, have your car checked thoroughly before leaving, at your own garage or service station.

When you pull into a service station away from home, one member of the family should stay with your car while it is being checked and serviced. It often helps if that person is out of the car and watching when the hood is opened.

If a mechanic tells you that some repair work is needed on your car and you have suspicions about it, take it to the local dealer who handles your make of car, or to an AAA contract station and have them check it over.

If you do have problems, effective July 1, 1972, California has a law which will regulate auto repairs and garages. Complaints about an unscrupulous mechanic can be submitted to the

The David Hansens

Laura Cash became Mrs. David Hansen during an afternoon ceremony at the Montclair Presbyterian Church, July 2.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, O'Vester Cash, wore a floor length bridal gown with a finger-tip lace veil. Her bouquet was made of white carnations, with a white orchid and ivy. A reception at the Montclair Women's Club followed the ceremony.

The maid of honor was Deborah Cash, and the bridesmaids were Penny Molikedes, Eileen Lee, Sharon Hansen, and Jon Morishige.

The groom is a graduate of Albany High School and his parents are Mr. and Mrs. Theodore C. Hansen of Albany. His best man was Gary Carpenter, and the ushers were Doug Carter, Dale Hansen and Bill Hall.

The newlyweds plan to make their home in the Bay Area.

AC Transit's 'Blue Spot' For BART

"Watch for the blue spot" will be a new directive for AC Transit passengers waiting for a bus to BART.

A blue square, with the words, "TO BART," is being installed next to the headsign on all new-look buses. When the bus driver flips a switch, the words will be illuminated, to alert riders that a bus is en route to a BART station.

If the bus has just left a station and is not immediately headed for another BART stop, the letter will be shut off and the square will appear solid blue.

The illuminated wording can be seen in either daylight or dark, and has been installed on 352 buses ready to roll with the start of BART service in September. A plastic portable sign, also newly designed, will be used on old buses which are scheduled for retirement following commencement of full BART operations next year.

The blue light was designed by AC Transit personnel and is an innovation for the transit industry.

Face Up To Tickets -- They Won't Go Away

If you do get notices of tickets after you sold the car, arrange to come to court right away. In that way, the matter can usually be straightened out without trouble.

Don't disregard parking tickets you get while driving someone else's car. Common decency aside, you are likely to cause problems for your friends as well as for yourself.

"We all know that parking in Berkeley, especially near the university, is difficult," says Judge Brunn. "Almost everybody who drives here sooner or later gets parking tickets. They're never fun to get, but if you follow the simple guidelines above, you will be able to save yourself a good deal of time, money and trouble."

When you get a parking ticket, do something about it fast, advises Berkeley-Albany Municipal Court Judge George Brunn. "Nobody enjoys getting tickets, but it's a lot less painful to face up to them rather than hope that they will somehow go away," he says.

Disregarded tickets often lead to much higher fines, arrest and jail. Such tickets go into a Bay Area-wide police computer network and often catch up with drivers when the police stop them for minor violations. Fines go up because of the substantial cost in processing arrest warrants; the increase in the fine pays for only a fraction of the added cost.

Judge Brunn has some money-saving tips on tickets:

If you feel a parking ticket is improper, get in touch with the Parking Violations Bureau at City Hall right away. If that doesn't resolve the problem, arrange for a court date.

Make sure that the Department of Motor Vehicles has your current address. The court sends out notices on unpaid parking tickets and these go to the address shown on Motor Vehicle Department records for the car you own.

Never ignore a ticket because you are short of money. Come to court on it. The court can give you time to pay and also has work projects that give you a chance to work instead of paying the ticket. The court is sympathetic to financial problems, but much less sympathetic when you disregard the ticket for several weeks or months.

Don't ignore tickets because you have an out-of-state car. Such tickets still turn into arrest warrants and can catch up with you at embarrassing moments.

When you sell a car, inform the Department of Motor Vehicles right away of the name and address of the buyer. Otherwise, you might get charged with parking tickets that the buyer got; at a minimum, that's a hassle you can live without.

Ear Dangers In Water Sports

Summer — the time of year when sports enthusiasts can enjoy their pastimes to the fullest — also is the season to be particularly careful in guarding your hearing ability, according to David Smith, director of the Beltone Crusade for Hearing Conservation.

The Crusade is sponsored by Beltone Electronic Corporation, a world leader in hearing aids and electronic hearing test instruments, as a means of making the public aware of the vital need to exercise good hearing conservation practices.

"Swimmers and water skiing enthusiasts particularly should be alert for the first signs of ear infection, 'swimmer's ear,' 'ear itch' or any similar malady. Such a disorder, if not properly treated could lead to a tragic, permanent hearing loss.

"And proper treatment of these disorders calls for medical attention, and not for the use of self-prescribed medication," Smith added. "Medical attention also should be obtained for earaches or severe head colds. If left untreated, earaches and severe head colds also can lead to hearing losses," he stressed.

As a final note of caution, the Beltone Crusade director urged parents to help protect their youngsters from the hazards of sustaining hearing losses by being alert for signs of ear infections, earaches or severe head colds.

The hearing may be conducted by the Director or any of his deputies designated by him. The Director may exempt from the requirements of this section any person who shows, and only so long as such person can continue to show that the premises are unoccupied, or that no unsanitary condition, hazard to health or public nuisance will arise upon the premises owned, managed or controlled by him if they are not provided with the collection and disposal of garbage."

Build A Compost Pile

Any family can greatly reduce its weekly refuse volume and, at the same time, increase the healthy growth of plants, flowers, or vegetables in the garden, by developing a compost pile.

In its popular and widely-quoted booklet "It Depends On You," the American Association of Nurserymen points out a number of the environmental advantages gained, when vegetable matter refuse is recycled for use in this way.

Starting and maintaining a compost pile is not at all complicated or difficult, nurserymen say, particularly when an individual recognizes the great rewards in store for the small amount of effort involved. They offer these simple tips on the preparation of a compost pile:

The first step is to put together some sort of bottomless bin of boards or chickenwire, in which the material for the pile can be collected. The size of the bin will depend upon the size of your garden, and an average dimension is about six feet by six feet.

Any kind of vegetable refuse can go into the compost pile—grass clippings, fallen leaves, fruit and vegetable peels and scraps, tea leaves and coffee grounds, and even a small amount of well-soaked newspapers. Plant material which is diseased should, of course, not be used.

The layers of refuse should be 6 to 8 inches thick. Each layer should be covered by one inch of good garden soil. There are also commercial activators on the market, containing bacteria to encourage the decomposition. It is also possible to use unprocessed animal or bird manure, sprinkled in a thickness of about one inch on top of each layer of compacted compost material; if the garden soil is known to be acid, ground limestone should be sprinkled on each layer of material at about the rate of 4 ounces per square yard.

Continue to add vegetable waste as it becomes available each day, adding the soil or activator when the 6 to 8 inch levels are attained, until the pile reaches the desired height you wish. Most gardeners prefer a height of 5 or 6 feet. At that point, add a 6 inch layer of soil on top.

In a compost pile prepared in this manner, heat generated by the materials causes the breakdown of proteins and carbohydrates to result in the formation of a dark brown humus material. This process usually takes a minimum of six months, and turning or mixing the material tends to speed up the action.

The pile should be kept moist, and sprinkling is recommended during dry spells. Some gardeners also keep the top of the pile concave, to collect rainfall. When the compost is ready to use it will be perfectly sweet-smelling, showing no traces of the original materials, and may be kept for two or more years.

Rather than adding to the community's burden of waste disposal, household refuse processed in a compost pile becomes a valuable fertilizer and soil conditioner. It should be applied to the garden at the rate of at least a large handful to the square yard each year. Mix the compost thoroughly with the topsoil, to a depth of 6 to 10 inches, or apply it as a mulch on the surface of the ground.

Complete information on the subject is available at any local nursery garden center.
